(c) and (d) Anti-dumping legislation has been is existence ir existence in almost all countries, including the USA and India. Anti-dumping duties can be imposed by a country against imports based solely on the price aspect. No. duties can be imposed on the basis of quality of the material, method of catch, the types of processing etc.

It is reported that the Southern Shrimp Alliance (SSA) of USA may file an Anti-dumping action against selected shrimp exporting countries, including India, in the USA. However, once the petition is filed, there will be preliminary hearing on the issue. Depending upon the final verdict of the case, duties could be levied. The Seafood Exporters Association of India (SEAI) has hired a legal firm in the USA to defend Indian shrimp exporters.

For maintaining high quality in the exports of seafood, various steps have been taken by the Marine Products Export Development Authority (MPEDA). These include schemes for extending financial assistance to the seafood processing industry; steps to upgrade processing facilities to meet international standards of hygiene and quality; imparting training to aquaculture farmers to adopt sound management practices to prevent outbreak of diseases; assistance to produce value added products for exports etc. and upgradation of laboratories including the installation of state of art machines for detection of banned antibiotics and heavy metals.
